CODE OF HONOR IS ADOPTED BY U.S. SOLDIERS

French People Have No Hesitancy in Opening Their Homes To Wearers of Khaki

PAY FARMERS FOR PRODUCE

By J. W. Tiegler
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
American Field Headquarters, France, Aug. 25.—(By Mail)—Mothers and sweethearts at home might as well not ask the boys over here when they expect to go into the trenches.

The boys themselves don't know when they will move up. Most likely they will not know more than a few days before they entrain for the front. When a big enough force has been equipped and trained and the American communications are working—when all the big preliminary tasks have been accomplished, the residents of these pretty little French towns, nestling among picturesque valleys, will say a sorrowful good-bye to the soldiers from overseas and pray for their victory in the trenches.

Until that day the boys have a program of grilling work—drills, digging, gunnery and bombing. Army officers have now completed a survey for miles around this place, marking out billets for troops which will move up to the main training area. Any building that can shelter the men under sanitary conditions is liable to be taken as accommodation for from five to thirty-five or even more men.

Throughout the district the American commissions have found the French villagers and farmers unusually willing to accommodate the troops. Aside from the high regard for Americans obtaining throughout France, this was due to the good name established by the first contingent from America.

The French farmer now knows that when an American soldier has chicken for dinner he buys the chicken although scores of fowls may be scratching in the fields and in the village streets. He knows, too, that no American soldier ever steals an apple, a cantaloupe or a pear from a farmer, because it is in the code of this army to pay for everything the men take. The farmer consideration that might have caused reluctance to accept an army in billets is the fact that French farmers still remember the crimes of the Boche against women and young girls. With another army the farmer might have taken a second thought before accepting into his home a number of young men from a foreign country.

But the American record is unblemished. For in this territory where the name of the Boche recalls unmentionable horrors, there has not been a single instance in which an American soldier ever forgot his respect for women. Even the nameless type of Santiago, Cal., Sept. 12.—The Anvil, Enseda's "slacker" ship with slackers and German agents aboard slipped into Santiago harbor today. Secret service men, police, custom and emigrant officials met the vessel. Police would not reveal the identity of those on board. The Anvil was taken by secret service men when it was leaving Cincinnati for the western coast of Mexico. Secret service men believe the man or men are on the Anvil who are responsible for the Mare Island explosion it was learned late this afternoon by the United Press. Ricotta accused of complicity in the murder of Barnett Bass, a wealthy cattle dealer of New York in 1914 was not aboard as was believed.

LEGALLY AMERICA HAS NO NATIONAL ANTHEM

(By United Press)
Washington, Sept. 12.—The surprising news was forthcoming from Assistant General H. P. McCain today that America has no national anthem, hymn or air by the provisions of any federal law.

Army and Navy regulations constitute the only authority for proclaiming The Star Spangled Banner the national air. No federal code of law need recognize it as such.

Army and Navy regulations are binding only upon the personnel of the Army and Navy.

"However," said Gen. McCain, "the custom of rising and rendering standing and uncovered while the Star Spangled Banner is being played is growing in favor among civilians."

"Among army and navy men it is obligatory."

"Whenever the national air is played at any place where persons belonging to the military or naval service are present, all officers and enlisted men not in formation are required to stand at attention, facing toward the music, excepting when the flag is being lowered at sunset, on which occasion they are required to face toward the flag."

"If in civilian dress and uncovered, they are required to stand and salute at the first note of the air, retaining their position of salute until last note of the air is played."

"If in civilian dress and covered, they are required to stand and uncover at the first note of the air, holding the head dress opposite the left shoulder until the last note is played, except in inclement weather, when the head dress may be held slightly raised."

"The code is simple in its workings, founded on the pride that each man has in the good name of his regiment. Thousands of French troops will testify to its effect—honesty and loyalty in a great body of young American soldiers."

Leitzingers' Millinery Opening will be held Friday, Saturday and Monday, September 13, 14 and 15.

MOBILIZING THE WOMAN POWER HEREABOUTS

Enthusiastic Meeting Held At The Dimeling Parlors Yesterday at Hall of Mrs. Swoope

PERMANENT OFFICERS NAMED

In accordance with a request from the Pennsylvania Division of the Woman's committee of the council of national defense, the representatives of various woman's organizations met yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. and organized a county committee as follows:

Chairman, Mrs. R. D. Swoope, of Curwensville.

Vice chairman, Mrs. A. B. Mosser, of Mahaffey.

Secretary, Mrs. A. B. Weaver, of Clearfield.

Treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Shively, of Clearfield.

The primary object of this organization is to register all women who are now working in any way and those also who are able and willing to work.

1. To ascertain the "woman power" of the state.

2. To see that every woman available for any kind of service, has an opportunity to use her ability to her best advantage.

To this end all women are asked to sign her registration cards which will soon be sent out and all women of all organizations are asked to unite and work together during this war emergency.

There are the departments (which will be under general directors and strong sub-committees) as follows:

1. Registration. Gen. director, Mrs. Warren Partridge.
2. Food Products. Mrs. Orvitt.
3. Food Conservation and Home Economics. vacant.
4. Women in Industry. Mrs. Jane P. O'Laughlin.
5. Child Welfare. Mrs. Frank B. Reed.
6. Club Work. Mrs. George Reed.
7. Education.—(a) Schools. Mrs. Louise Weber. (b) Training Class for Women. Miss Carrie Powell.
8. Liberty Loan.
9. Red Cross and Navy League. Mrs. A. O. Smith.
10. Safeguarding of Moral and Spiritual Forces. Mrs. H. J. Flegal.

The names of the remaining directors will be given as soon as appointed. The Council of National Defense, to quote the words of the Secretary of War, who is its chairman, "determined upon the formation of the Woman's Advisory committee on the Woman's defense work in order that this constructive effort might be coordinated and directed, duplicated, avoided and useless work discouraged through its activities. Primarily, of course, the committee of Woman's Defense work is an advisory committee to the council, as are all other committees created under the council."

In one way the scope and authority of the Woman's committee is very broad, for there is no phase or aspect of the defense work of women which it may not investigate, and concerning which it may not make suggestions to the council. To quote again the words of the chairman of the council: "The Woman's Advisory committee should consider plans and projects of all kinds which, in their judgment, would be effective in the coordination of women harmoniously with the needs and aims of the government."

In local state work, however, the state divisions of the woman's committee have a very broad field for it is expected and desired that they shall each become a part of their state council of defense, and that they shall serve as a part of, or in cooperation with it, and with its assistance and support, have the widest field for useful service as members of the state council, acting under its direction.

We must bear in mind that all that we do we have one common object. Whether it be the product of saving of food that our armies and our allies may be fed; or the conservation of existing social agencies that our soldiers may fight content, knowing that their families and the children of their wives and their children are being safeguarded and cared for against their return; whether it be in aiding the Red Cross or the Liberty Loan, we have but one purpose, and the clear flame of that purpose shall shine through all that we do.

The President has said: "For us there is but one choice. We have made it. We owe to the man or group of men that seeks to stand in our way in this day of high resolution when every principle we hold dearest is to be vindicated and made secure for the salvation of the nations."

The following were present from the various parts of the county: Mrs. Roland Swoope, Mrs. William C. Heimhold, Mrs. L. L. Arnold, Mrs. Mary A. Swoope, Mrs. A. Z. Wolf, Mrs. L. D. Bloom, of Curwensville; Mrs. L. W. Boyer, of Houtzdale; Mrs. Louise Weber, Mrs. C. A. Blake, Mrs. Robert B. Blakeslee, of DuBois; Mrs. Lawrence Baird, Mrs. C. A. Rosenbaum, of Osoedat; Mrs. W. C. COURT NOTES

The first week of civil court for September has been in session since Monday. Thus far but two or three trivial cases have been disposed of.

The jury in the case of Mike Hritz against Rolley Farwell, of Grampian, brought in a verdict for the plaintiff for $25. Hritz sued Farwell for $500 damages for the false arrest of his son.

The case of Speigle, May Stern & Co. vs. G. M. Passmore, resulted in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the sum of $14.95.

The trespass suit of George Kanouff against John Cole et al. resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff. This was a suit over the use of a private road.

The case of J. L. Ward against the supervisors of Morris township is being tried today. In this suit Mr. Ward is suing the supervisors for damages for injuries sustained by a valuable horse which was injured last winter driving over a dangerous piece of road in the township.

Former Home of Czar May Be Battle Place

Opposing Forces in Russian Civil War Moving to That Objective

By Wm. G. Shepherd

Petrograd Sept. 12.—Tarkia Seio, the palace where the former Czar had his summer home, will probably be the scene of the first clash between the revolutionists of General Korniloff and the provincial government troops. Word was received here today that the revolutionary forces had advanced rapidly and were within 20 miles of the city. Word had also been received that General Klenbovsky, recently appointed commander-in-chief of the Russian army, had joined with Korniloff. No confirmation is obtainable, however.

While under flying instructions at North Island Aviation School early this morning the airplanes driven by the two men clashed 400 feet in the air and fell to the ground. From the blazing mass the men were removed, but both were dead.

HUNTER'S PAGE FOR SPORTSMEN OF COUNTY

Feature Started By The Progress Last Season Struck Popular Chord; Will Be Continued

GAME PROTECTOR KELLY HERE

E. Woody Kelly, of DuBois, the energetic Supervisor of State Game Reserves and a State Game Protector, was in town today on his way to the lower end of the county where he goes to investigate an illegal deer killing.

While visiting in the county treasurer's office with a bunch of local Nimrods this morning Kelly told a number of stories contrasting the difference in deer hunting now with what it was before the present wise game laws were placed upon the statute books.

Kelly comes of a family of hunters, his father and uncle having been two of the best known and most successful of the pioneer hunters of this section. True to his blood, Woody has long been ranked as one of the most successful hunters that range these hills and in his day has bagged as much game as any other one man in the county. A born woodsman and expert shot he was uniformly successful where others failed.

In commenting on the great increase in deer the past few years he told how Milt Miles, John Hays and himself during the last two weeks of the deer season some twenty years ago had tramped the mountains every day in deep snow without having been able to find a single deer track, although they had killed nine deer during the first four weeks of the season, which ran six weeks. Their camp then was at the Montgomery dam in the mountains north of town and Kelly says now on traversing the same territory would think he was traveling through a sheep pasture did he not know the thousands of tracks to be found along the runs and other wet places were made by deer. He also reports small game much plentier than last year.

Since joining the forces of the State Game Commission Kelly has not had much time to hunt anything but game hogs and game law violators, and has proven as successful along this line as he was when pursuing the denizens of the forest for the pure love of the sport. He also manages to land his buck each season.

That his eye has not lost its cunning and he is the deadly marksman of old, in all conditions and under all circumstances, was demonstrated at the Wild Life League tournament held at Conneaut Lake, Pa., last week. The sportsmen of the state gathered at this meeting and engaged in many tests of skill. Kelly won nearly every race he started in. He captured the John M. Phillips trophy, a $65 Parker shot gun. This prize was given in a difficult shooting contest where conditions were made to compare as near as possible with those the hunter experiences in the field. There were three different events and Kelly surmounted all obstacles by making a perfect score in each of the three events. He also captured three or four other prizes and topped the entire list of winners by a large margin.

Mr. Kelly, like many other hunters of the county, carefully read and expressed himself as being greatly pleased with the "hunting dope" published in the Hunters' page featured by The Progress last year and when told that we would continue the same this year, stated that he was glad to know it and will assist us in making it interesting to run over so far as it will be possible for him to do so.

In reply to the many inquiries regarding when we propose to start our hunters' page will say that we are about ready to cut loose and it will make its first appearance about October 1st. Meanwhile, we solicit contributions or any item of interest to the lover of dog and gun. If you have anything to offer along this line address them to the Hunters' Page Editor and drop them in the mail.

DENVER SURGEON IS REPORTED KILLED

Denver, Col., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Dinsy Smith of this city has been informed that her brother, David G. Allen, a surgeon in the United States Navy has been killed. A telegram was received which told of his death but it gave no details.

Argentine Gives Count Luxburg His Passports

Revelation of U. S. Authorities Is Responsible For Action

(By United Press)
Buenos Ayres, Sept. 12.—The Argentine foreign office today granted passports to Count Luxburg, German minister.

Dismissal of the German envoy was due to the revelation of the United States government that he was communicating messages through the foreign office at Sweden to Berlin. Luxburg has been absent from Buenos Ayres since the revelation was made public and only returned to the capital this morning. He went to the foreign office and then went to the German legation. His passports were delivered there to him it was asserted.

STATE COLLEGE OPENS

State College, Sept. 12.—With "Business as Usual" literally nailed to the gate at the main entrance to the campus, State College opened its fall term today with a curriculum smacking sharply of war conditions.

Freshman enrolment is up to the standard. The complement of upper classmen is not here because many have entered military service. President Sparks, however, expects a fine year.

Classes in ordnance stores, airplane mechanics, signal service and field hospital work have been added to the regular courses so as to prepare students of both sexes to "do their bit."

NEW BILLIARD PARLOR

W. B. Ogden, the Market street confectioner will retire from business Saturday evening next, he having closed a deal with Harry D. Healy whereby Mr. Healy will take over the Ogden building and after remodeling same open a first class billiard room.

Mr. Healey will remove the partitions in the Ogden building, thus converting the three rooms into one large one 30x60 feet in size.

Mr. Ogden has not decided as yet just what business he will engage in in the future.

KORNILOFF PLANS ANOTHER MONARCHY

London, Sept. 12.—General Korniloff plans to place the head of the Dol-Doupe family on the throne of Russia according to a report which reached here today. One member of that family, Prince Dol-Doupe is a voluntary exile with the former Czar, and presumably it is he who will represent the revolutionists on the throne of Russia. He is one of the greatest noblemen in Russia.

FRENCH VICTORIOUS

Paris, Sept. 12.—French troops penetrated the third German defense line, in a brilliant raid near Soupplet, the official report stated today. The enemyarrison was almost annihilated. At Tashure also in the Champagne sector the German attacks were fruitless. The enemy suffered heavy losses.

Leitzingers' Millinery Opening will be held Friday, Saturday and Monday, September 14, 15 and 17.

Assemblyman Phillips Fighting For Elimination of Death Traps

Don't be misled by irresponsible persons.

I have prepared three petitions to the Public Service Commission asking them to compel the N. Y. C. R. R. and P. R. R. to eliminate the grade crossing on the state road leading toward Clearfield Creek, which are very dangerous to the public. One of these petitions is at Ryan's Cigar Store, another at Central Garage Co., and the third at Woodland. We would like to present these petitions next week, so any person interested in getting rid of these death traps should see to it that they sign these petitions at once. Only last week a man was killed at one of these crossings and if by signing you name to a petition you could be the means of attempting to save one life you should surely be interested enough to attend to it at once.

I understand the editor of a certain newspaper in town has seen fit to knock on this proposition, and if this is true it is only characteristic of that type of man. They always knock the people who do things and never do anything themselves. I have received a lot of free advertising from their hands and expect to get more.

Every community of any size has a

Harrisburg, Sept. 12.—Railroad crossings—at, above and below grade but principally the abolition of crossings at grade—occupied most of the time of the Public Service commission today after yesterday's executive session. All of the crossing points discussed today are in Western Pennsylvania.

The Monongahela Southern Railroad company wishes to build a bridge crossing at the Curry Hollow road, Dravosburg and a subway at the Old Pittsburgh road in the same bend.

Thirteen applications about crossings in Crawford and Mercer counties were presented by the Pittsburgh, Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad Co. All but two are for abolition of grade crossings, as follows: Mercer county—Hogans' road, Sugar Grove township; Hecker road and Raber road, Delaware township; Connecting road and Leech road, Hempfield township; South Main street, Greenville, Crawford county—McQuiston road, Blair road and Minnis road, West Fallowfield township; State street and Jefferson street, Hartstown. The same company also wishes to abolish an above-grade crossing in Sugar Grove township, Mercer county on the Harrisburg—Kenard highway, and to construct a grade crossing at North Main street, Hempfield township, Mercer county.

The application of Arthur W. Alyea to operate an autobus between Towanda and Mansfield was also considered.

POTTERS DISCUSS WAGE SCALE

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 12.—A new wage agreement to govern the pottery industry during the two years to begin October 1 is under discussion at a conference opened here today between representatives of the United States Potters' association and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters. The workmen are holding out for a 25 per cent wage increase. The manufacturers have presented a number of counter proposals. Among other things they ask that the doors be open to foreign white labor in all departments and that all prices and contract work be abolished.

Resolutions adopted by Women's Christian Temperance Convention.

We the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Clearfield county, in 32nd annual convention assembled, do gratefully acknowledge the evidence of the Holy Spirit in the advancement of our work during the past year.

Whereas, There are many Temperance Organizations, with many standards, but it resolved, that we co-operate with the State Dry Federation, and continue our co-operation with a County Federation.

Whereas, we deplore the fact that some school banquets in our county are held in licensed hotels, therefore, be it resolved that we use our influence to encourage the use of homes, school buildings or halls.

Whereas, knowing that cigarette smoking is no longer a moral question, and knowing that the great business world has decided it a deadly enemy of advancement of achievement, and knowing also of the great waste of money in this seductive habit, resolved that we disfavor placing cigarettes and tobacco in comfort kits or bags for soldiers.

Resolved, that we reaffirm our belief that taxation without representation tion is tyranny, and shall continue to work and pray for the enfranchisement of women.

Whereas, almost all crime contains the element of cruelty and whereas, the systematic teaching of the law of kindness to every living creature, has proven to be a prevention of crime, therefore be it resolved, that we recognize the fundamental need of such teachings, do earnestly recommend it to all educators and that we urge the formation of societies for the prevention of cruelty to both human and dumb creatures.

Resolved, that we express our heartfelt thanks to the pastor and trustees of the M. WHY CAN'T CLEARFIELD SUPPORT A BAND?

Why can't Clearfield support a band? Every other town that is a town supports at least one band and many towns not half as large as ours possess two good bands—notably our neighboring town of Curwensville.

Clearfield has a great many musicians of more than ordinary ability and with a little encouragement it seems there should be no trouble in recruiting and keeping up a first class band, such as represented Clearfield for many years, when the town was nothing nearly as prosperous as it is now.

No single organization ever served a better purpose looking to the placing of the town on the map than the famous Fifth Regiment band, and its fame when it was a part of the Fifth Regiment N. G. P. was more than state-wide. Following the disbanding of the Fifth regiment it continued as Leopold's Fifth Regiment band and added anew to its laurels and the town's prestige for several years in many contests and at many parades and gatherings throughout the state.

The director and moving spirits in the organization, who gave much time and money to the band's affairs, succeeded in worrying along with little or no support from the public, going down into their own pockets to pay expenses in addition to the daily loss in business way while out on duty with the band.

When war was declared so many of the Fifth Regiment's players enlisted that it was necessary to disband and since that time we have had no band in Clearfield—this town of good bands—with the exception of course of the Clearfield Italian band, a very creditable organization which deserves encouragement also.

There never was so much need for a band in Clearfield, with the draft and the activities incident thereto, and our people should make an effort to have one organized. It is an activity President Betts of the Chamber of Commerce, might well get behind with his customary energy. With the manifold industries in our town it ought not to be hard to secure band men to come to Clearfield to live and work if the proper inducements were offered them. In this way needed members could be secured and a good band built up again around the old-time local musicians.

No organization of the kind can be self-supporting, and the town should have pride enough to do its part toward helping the boys who have sacrificed so much to give old Clearfield a good band.

Let us give this matter the attention it deserves and get behind a proposition that will mean a bang-up band for Clearfield. The Progress will do its full share.

DUMDUMS

The Lord helps them who help themselves but the aforesaid "them" should be very careful what they help themselves to.

German officials recently stated that the U. S. was getting up in the air. Right they are but those of us who are up in the air have their machines under perfect control and a good supply of bombs ready to drop on German positions.

One who boasts that he never stood in the way of public improvements is now very busy advising his cohorts not to sign the petition for the elimination of the deadly grade crossing at the County Home. Apparently they are considering the source and the why of the whine for they are signing it just the same.

HOW A RAILROAD EARNS A DOLLAR.

If a drayman charged you fifty cents for carting a ton of freight one mile from the railroad depot to your residence or place of business, you would not accuse the man of being exorbitant in his charges and refuse to pay him unless he reduced the amount.

Knowing that a ton is quite a load, and that the drayman's expenses have increased in the same ratio as your own, you would consider his charge extremely reasonable and, perhaps, hand him an extra dime or a good cigar as evidence of your satisfaction.

Now, as the freight was carted from the depot, it was evidently hauled there by the railroad, and, wishing to learn how much the railroad company received from the shipment, we quickly ascertain from the company's statistics that the average rate for hauling a ton one mile is a little less than one-half of one cent, or the one hundredth part of what the drayman received.

For that dime which you may have given to the drayman, the railroad hauls a ton twenty miles, or farther than from Rochester to Munciford; for the price of a dollar, but, the railroad hauls a ton two hundred miles, or from Rochester, N. Y., to DuBois, Pa.; and for the amount paid for a fifteen-dollar ready-made suit of clothes, the shipment was hauled three thousand miles or nearly across the continent! School for Soldiers Lesson No. 27

This course of thirty daily lessons is offered to the men selected for service in the National Army as a practical help in getting started in the right way. It is informal in tone and does not attempt to give binding rules and direction. These are contained in the various manuals and regulations of the United States army to which this course is merely introductory.

LESSON NO. 27 THE SPIRIT OF THE SERVICE

The spirit that dominated the American armies at Bunker Hill, New Orleans, Buena Vista, Gettysburg and Santiago will just as surely dominate the National army on the battle fields of Europe.

This spirit is a compound. It is made up in part of democratic feeling, in part of respect and love for the nation and in part of Americanism.

The United States army has always been and will always remain a democratic army. Every man in the army is made to feel that his brains and his individuality count for something. It is not merely a big, soulless machine that moves with mechanical precision. It is a "team". Each man in the team is presumed to be intelligent and self-reliant.

Democracy in the Army

Of course there can be no teamwork without regularity and strict discipline. This is equally true of a football or baseball team. There must also be various ranks and degrees of authority. And sometimes this necessary organization and close regulation creates an impression that the army is not democratic.

But the fact of the case is that the American soldiers accept the reasonable discipline of the army readily because they have the good sense to realize that these things are necessary. They accept them without losing in the least their real independence as free citizens.

Furthermore American armies are democratic because the path of promotion is wide open. Any man who has a reasonable amount of ability can practice, can study, can cultivate the qualities of a soldier and a leader, and can work his way up. And this is the real test of a democratic army.

In a special sense the national army is democratic. A great democracy must always carry on its affairs through chosen representatives. You are doubtless familiar with principle as it is applied in time of peace. Now it is applied in time of war. Through a process of fair selection the national army has been picked to represent all parts of the country and all groups of the people. Never has America sent forth an army so truly representative of the nation.

There are always pessimists in every generation who insist that patriotism is dead or at least decaying. They have not been lacking in recent years. Then comes a crisis such as now confronts us. And always the question of patriotism is answered by a free outpouring of effort, money and blood on the part of citizens of all types in every section of the country. This is exactly what is now going on—and what will continue to go on with increasing force until the war is brought to a victorious end.

Everybody Must Help

Every citizen of the United States now has or will have certain duties to perform, certain sacrifices to make.

Few sportsmen nowadays judge a day's sport merely by the size of the bag they bring home with them.

Yet a man's object in shooting is to hit what he aims at.

There's nothing like the thrill of cutting down a fast bird; of getting the clay that sails out at an unexpected angle; of scoring a "possible" when the light is bad, and mirage makes the bull's-eye swim almost out of sight.

As a sportsman, you are willing to take chances with natural conditions—but you want to be sure of your shooting equipment.

FOUR OF TAGEBLATT STAFF ARE HELD IN PHILADELPHIA

Editor-in Chief And Writer Surrender—Letters From U. S. Senator Found

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Four members of the staff of the Philadelphia Tageblatt, whose offices were raided yesterday by government agents, are now under arrest, and the remaining two for whom warrants have been issued will appear in time for hearing Thursday. All are charged with violating the espionage act through the publication of articles alleged to be inimical to the interests of the United States.

Louis Werner, editor-in-chief, and Waldimar Alfredo, an editorial writer, surrendered to the Federal authorities today and were held in $10,000 bail each. Peter Schaefer, president of the company which publishes the Tageblatt, and Paul Vogel, treasurer, the other two men wanted, are in Cincinnati, attending a meeting of editors, it was said, and their counsel promised they would be here Thursday. The men arrested yesterday are Dr. Martin Darkow, managing editor, and Herman Lemke, business manager.

Agents of the Department of Justice reported that among articles seized were a number of letters from a United States senator from a Western state. The contents of the letters were not revealed.

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 11.—Dallas, the most populous county in Texas, voted "dry" in a local option election yesterday. About 19,000 votes were polled out of a registration of 28,000.

Complete figures show that the prohibitionists polled 10,516 votes and the anti-prohibitionists 8,564. The saloons will be closed October 20.

ADVANCED RATE ON MEAT DENIED TO RAILROADS

Washington, Sept. 11.—Proposed general increases in freight rates on livestock and fresh and dressed meats on virtually all lines east of Mississippi and north of the Ohio, which were to have become effective September 18, today were suspended until January 13 by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The proposed rates were the outgrowth of the 15 per cent rate case in which the railroads sought to obtain a flat increase of 15 per cent on virtually all products handled.

CROWDER TO GIVE NOTICE BEFORE NEXT DRAFT CALLS

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Rochester draft boards, preparing a second increment of 800 men to send to Wightstown, N. J., on September 19, halted their work today when Chairman Matsen received instructions from Provost Marshal Gen. Crowder at Washington, who wired that "due to the lack of absolutely certain information of the percentage of completion of mobilization camps, it is not deemed wise to issue the actual call to military duty for the increments to go on September 19 and October 3, until this office has been definitely informed and has definitely informed the governor of each state that the camps will be ready on the dates mentioned."

Ten days' notice will be given in advance, the provost marshal general's dispatch said.

GOV. LOUDEN IS PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITY

Loyal Ruler of State of Illinois May Displace Sherman As Favorite Son of That State

LOVES TO SQUELCH PACIFISTS

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 12.—Although it is rather early to figure on the next presidential election, the people of Illinois are already making frequent mention of the name of Governor Frank G. Lowden in connection with the Republican nomination for the presidency. There is every indication that if the convention were near at hand Governor Lowden would be certain to supplant Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman as the "favorite son" of Illinois.

Governor Lowden's quick and decisive action in squelching the recent attempt of the pacifists to hold their national conference in Chicago has served to bring him prominently into the public eye of the nation. Already people of other states are calling on him for addresses at public gatherings.

Governor Lowden is a native of Minnesota, having been born at Sunrise, a small village on the eastern border of that state. He was reared, however, on a small farm afterward purchased by his father in Iowa. Farming was not always so profitable in these days as it is now, and there were times when the hand of poverty bore heavily upon the family.

At an early age young Lowden struck out for himself. Through his own exertions he received his education at Iowa State university, graduating with high honors in 1885, and spent the two following years in a law school in Chicago. In an almost incredibly short time after receiving his diploma he was in possession of a lucrative income won by his own indomitable pluck and energy. He had established a high place for himself at the Chicago bar when, in 1896, he met and married Miss Florence Pullman, daughter of George E. Pullman, the multi-millionaire palace car magnate.

Governor Lowden's public career began in the late '90s, when he began to take an active interest in Republican politics in Illinois. He was a delegate to the Republican national conventions in 1900 and 1904 and in the latter year he became the Republican national committeeman for Illinois.

In 1904 the young lawyer made his first try for public office, his goal being the Republican nomination for governor of Illinois, which he failed to win at that time, though he made a good impression upon the people and many of the leaders of his party. The campaign was one of the most hotly contested in the history of the state. At the celebrated deadlocked convention at Springfield, young Lowden was defeated at the moment when victory seemed within his grasp. Charles S. Deenen was given the nomination over Lowden, and in the successful campaign that followed no man worked harder for the election of the Republican nominee than did the candidate who was defeated in the convention.

In 1906 Lowden was elected to congress to fill the unexpired term of the late Robert R. Hitt. He was re-elected to the 60th and 61st congresses, and at the expiration of his second full term he voluntarily retired from the arena of politics and took up practical farming on his magnificent estate of 2,000 acres on the banks of the Rock river in northern Illinois.

Governor Lowden's friends are confident that his talents will hurl him close to the presidential firing line in 1920. His record as congressman and governor are expected to count heavily in his favor. As a stump-speaker he has always been able to hold his own. His restless brain craves action, and he delights to be where events of moment are occurring. Since he assumed the executive chair at Springfield he has shown a grasp of public questions that sufficiently disposes of any doubt that might have been entertained as to his ability to measure up to the office of governor, or even the higher one of president. Moreover, his Americanism is of the six-cylinder type, which lies a quality that obviously must be possessed beyond dispute by the man, whether Republican or Democrat, who aspires to succeed President Wilson in the white house.

CODE OF HONOR IS ADOPTED BY U.S. SOLDIERS

French People Have No Hesitancy in Opening Their Homes To Wearers of Khaki

PAY FARMERS FOR PRODUCE

By J. W. Tiegler
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
American Field Headquarters, France, Aug. 25.—(By Mail)—Mothers and sweethearts at home might as well not ask the boys over here when they expect to go into the trenches.

The boys themselves don't know when they will move up. Most likely they will not know more than a few days before they entrain for the front. When a big enough force has been equipped and trained and the American communications are working—when all the big preliminary tasks have been accomplished, the residents of these pretty little French towns, nestling among picturesque valleys, will say a sorrowful good-bye to the soldiers from overseas and pray for their victory in the trenches.

Until that day the boys have a program of grilling work—drills, digging, gunnery and bombing.

Army officers have now completed a survey for miles around this place, marking out billets for troops which will move up to the main training area. Any building that can shelter the men under sanitary conditions is liable to be taken as accommodation for from five to thirty-five or even more men.

Throughout the district the American commissions have found the French villagers and farmers unusually willing to accommodate the troops. Aside from the high regard for Americans obtaining throughout France, this was due to the good name established by the first contingent from America.

The French farmer now knows that when an American soldier has chosen for dinner he buys the chicken although scores of fowls may be scratching in the fields and in the village streets. He knows, too, that no American soldier ever eats an apple, a cantaloupe or a pear from a farmer, because it is in the code of this army to pay for everything the men take.

Another consideration that might have caused reluctance to accept an army in billets is the fact that French farmers still remember the crimes of the Boche against women and young girls. With another army the farmers might have taken a second thought before accepting into his home a number of young men from a foreign country.

But the American record is unblemished. For in this territory where the name of the Boche recalls unmentionable horrors, there has not been a single instance in which an American soldier ever forgot his respect for women. Even the nameless type of

Those Responsible For Mare Island Explosion Believed On Board

Secret service men, police, custom and emigrant officials met the vessel. Police would not reveal the identity of those on board. The Anvil was taken by secret service men when it was leaving Cincinnati for the western coast of Mexico. Secret service men believe the man or men are on the Anvil who are responsible for the Mare Island explosion it was learned late this afternoon by the United Press. LEGALLY AMERICA HAS NO NATIONAL ANTHEM

(By United Press)
Washington, Sept. 12.—The surprising news was forthcoming from Assistant General H. P. McCain today that America has no national anthem, hymn or air by the provisions of any federal law.

Army and Navy regulations constitute the only authority for proclaiming The Star Spangled Banner the national air. No federal code of law need recognize it as such.

Army and Navy regulations are binding only upon the personnel of the Army and Navy.

"However," said Gen. McCain, "the custom of rising and rendering standing and uncovered while the Star Spangled Banner is being played is growing in favor among civilians."

"Among army and navy men it is obligatory."

"Whenever the national air is played at any place where persons belonging to the military or naval service are present, all officers and enlisted men not in formation are required to stand at attention, facing toward the music, excepting when the flag is being lowered at sunset, on which occasion they are required to face toward the flag."

"If in civilian dress and uncovered, they are required to stand and salute at the first note of the air, retaining their position of salute until last note of the air is played."

"If in civilian dress and covered, they are required to stand and uncover at the first note of the air, holding the head dress opposite the left shoulder until the last note is played, except in inclement weather, when the head dress may be held slightly raised."

"The code is simple in its workings, founded on the pride that each man has in the good name of his regiment. Thousands of French troops will testify to its effect—honesty and loyalty in a great body of young American soldiers."

Leitzingers' Millinery Opening will be held Friday, Saturday and Monday, September 13, 14 and 15.

MOBILIZING THE WOMAN POWER HEREABOUTS

Enthusiastic Meeting Held At The Dimeling Parlors Yesterday at Hall of Mrs. Swoope

PERMANENT OFFICERS NAMED

In accordance with a request from the Pennsylvania Division of the Woman's committee of the council of national defense, the representatives of various woman's organizations met yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. and organized a county committee as follows:

Chairman, Mrs. R. D. Swoope, of Curwensville.

Vice chairman, Mrs. A. B. Mosser, of Mahaffey.

Secretary, Mrs. A. B. Weaver, of Clearfield.

Treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Shively, of Clearfield.

The primary object of this organization is to register all women who are now working in any way and those also who are able and willing to work.

1. To ascertain the "woman power" of the state.

2. To see that every woman available for any kind of service, has an opportunity to use her ability to her best advantage.

To this end all women are asked to sign her registration cards which will soon be sent out and all women of all organizations are asked to unite and work together during this war emergency.

There are the departments (which will be under general directors and strong sub-committees) as follows:

1. Registration. Gen. director, Mrs. Warren Partridge.
2. Food Products. Mrs. Orvitt.
3. Food Conservation and Home Economics. vacant.
4. Women in Industry. Mrs. Jane P. O'Laughlin.
5. Child Welfare. Mrs. Frank B. Reed.
6. Club Work. Mrs. George Reed.
7. Education.—(a) Schools. Mrs. Louise Weber. (b) Training Class for Women. Miss Carrie Powell.
8. Liberty Loan.
9. Red Cross and Navy League.
10. A. O. Smith.
11. Safeguarding of Moral and Spiritual Forces. Mrs. H. J. Flegal.

The names of the remaining directors will be given as soon as appointed. The Council of National Defense, to quote the words of the Secretary of War, who is its chairman, "determined upon the formation of the Woman's Advisory committee on the Woman's defense work in order that this constructive effort might be coordinated and directed, duplicated, avoided and useless work discouraged through its activities. Primarily, of course, the committee of Woman's Defense work is an advisory committee to the council, as are all other committees created under the council."

In one way the scope and authority of the Woman's committee is very broad, for there is no phase or aspect of the defense work of women which it may not investigate, and concerning which it may not make suggestions to the council. To quote again the words of the chairman of the council: "The Woman's Advisory committee should consider plans and projects of all kinds which, in their judgment, would be effective in the coordination of women harmoniously with the needs and aims of the government."

In local state work, however, the state divisions of the woman's committee have a very broad field for it is expected and desired that they shall become a part of their state council of defense, and that they shall serve as a part of, or in cooperation with it, and with its assistance and support, have the widest field for useful service as members of the state council, acting under its direction.

We must bear in mind that all that we do we have one common object. Whether it be the product of saving of food that our armies and our allies may be fed; or the conservation of existing social agencies that our soldiers may fight content, knowing that their families and the children of their wives and their children are being safeguarded and cared for against their return; whether it be in aiding the Red Cross or the Liberty Loan, we have but one purpose, and the clear flame of that purpose shall shine through all that we do.

COURT NOTES

The first week of civil court for September has been in session since Monday. Thus far but two or three trivial cases have been disposed of.

HUNTER'S PAGE FOR SPORTSMEN OF COUNTY

GAME PROTECTOR KELLY HERE

E. Woody Kelly, of DuBois, the energetic Supervisor of State Game Reserves and a State Game Protector, was in town today on his way to the lower end of the county where he goes to investigate an illegal deer killing.

While visiting in the county treasurer's office with a bunch of local Nimrods this morning Kelly told a number of stories contrasting the difference in deer hunting now with what it was before the present wise game laws were placed upon the statute books.

Kelly comes of a family of hunters, his father and uncle having been two of the best known and most successful of the pioneer hunters of this section. True to his blood, Woody has long been ranked as one of the most successful hunters that range these hills and in his day has bagged as much game as any other one man in the county. A born woodsman and expert shot he was uniformly successful where others failed.

In commenting on the great increase in deer the past few years he told how Milt Miles, John Hays and himself during the last two weeks of the deer season some twenty years ago had tramped the mountains every day in deep snow without having been able to find a single deer track, although they had killed nine deer during the first four weeks of the season, which ran six weeks. Their camp then was at the Montgomery dam in the mountains north of town and Kelly says now on traversing the same territory would think he was traveling through a sheep pasture did he not know the thousands of tracks to be found along the runs and other wet places were made by deer. He also reports small game much plentier than last year.

Since joining the forces of the State Game Commission Kelly has not had much time to hunt anything but game hogs and game law violators, and has proven as successful along this line as he was when pursuing the denizens of the forest for the pure love of the sport. He also manages to land his buck each season.

That his eye has not lost its cunning and he is the deadly marksman of old, in all conditions and under all circumstances, was demonstrated at the Wild Life League tournament held at Conneaut Lake, Pa., last week. The sportsmen of the state gathered at this meeting and engaged in many tests of skill. Kelly won nearly every race he started in. He captured the John M. Phillips trophy, a $65 Parker shot gun. This prize was given in a difficult shooting contest where conditions were made to compare as near as possible with those the hunter experiences in the field. There were three different events and Kelly surmounted all obstacles by making a perfect score in each of the three events. He also captured three or four other prizes and topped the entire list of winners by a large margin.

Mr. Kelly, like many other hunters of the county, carefully read and expressed himself as being greatly pleased with the "hunting dope" published in the Hunters' page featured by The Progress last year and when told that we would continue the same this year, stated that he was glad to know it and will assist us in making it interesting to run over so far as it will be possible for him to do so.

In reply to the many inquiries regarding when we propose to start our hunters' page will say that we are about ready to cut loose and it will make its first appearance about October 1st. Meanwhile, we solicit contributions or any item of interest to the lover of dog and gun. If you have anything to offer along this line address them to the Hunters' Page Editor and drop them in the mail.

Argentine Gives Count Luxburg His Passports

Revelation of U. S. Authorities Is Responsible For Action

(By United Press)
Buenos Ayres, Sept. 12.—The Argentine foreign office today granted passports to Count Luxburg, German minister.

Dismissal of the German envoy was due to the revelation of the United States government that he was communicating messages through the foreign office at Sweden to Berlin. Luxburg has been absent from Buenos Ayres since the revelation was made public and only returned to the capital this morning. He went to the foreign office and then went to the German legation. His passports were delivered there to him it was asserted.

STATE COLLEGE OPENS

State College, Sept. 12.—With "Business as Usual" literally nailed to the gate at the main entrance to the campus, State College opened its fall term today with a curriculum smacking sharply of war conditions.

Freshman enrolment is up to the standard. The complement of upper classmen is not here because many have entered military service. President Sparks, however, expects a fine year.

Classes in ordnance stores, airplane mechanics, signal service and field hospital work have been added to the regular courses so as to prepare students of both sexes to "do their bit."

NEW BILLIARD PARLOR

W. B. Ogden, the Market street confectioner will retire from business Saturday evening next, he having closed a deal with Harry D. Healy whereby Mr. Healy will take over the Ogden building and after remodeling same open a first class billiard room.

Mr. Henley will remove the partitions in the Ogden building, thus converting the three rooms into one large one 30x60 feet in size.

Mr. Ogden has not decided as yet just what business he will engage in in the future.

KORNILOFF PLANS ANOTHER MONARCHY

London, Sept. 12.—General Korniloff plans to place the head of the Dol-Doupe family on the throne of Russia according to a report which reached here today. One member of that family, Prince Dol-Doupe is a voluntary exile with the former Czar, and presumably it is he who will represent the revolutionists on the throne of Russia. He is one of the greatest noblemen in Russia.

FRENCH VICTORIOUS

Paris, Sept. 12.—French troops penetrated the third German defense line, in a brilliant raid near Soupplet, the official report stated today. The enemyarrison was almost annihilated. At Tashure also in the Champagne sector the German attacks were fruitless. The enemy suffered heavy losses.

Assemblyman Phillips Fighting For Elimination of Death Traps

Don't be misled by irresponsible persons.

I have prepared three petitions to the Public Service Commission asking them to compel the N. Y. C. R. R. and P. R. R. to eliminate the grade crossing on the state road leading toward Clearfield Creek, which are very dangerous to the public. One of these petitions is at Ryan's Cigar Store, another at Central Garage Co., and the third at Woodland. We would like to present these petitions next week, so any person interested in getting rid of these death traps should see to it that they sign these petitions at once. Only last week a man was killed at one of these crossings and if by signing you name to a petition you could be the means of attempting to save one life you should surely be interested enough to attend to it at once.

I understand the editor of a certain newspaper in town has seen fit to knock on this proposition, and if this is true it is only characteristic of that type of man. They always knock the people who do things and never do anything themselves. I have received a lot of free advertising from their hands and expect to get more.

Every community of any size has a

Harrisburg, Sept. 12.—Railroad crossings—at, above and below grade but principally the abolition of crossings at grade—occupied most of the time of the Public Service commission today after yesterday's executive session. All of the crossing points discussed today are in Western Pennsylvania.

The Monongahela Southern Railroad company wishes to build a bridge crossing at the Curry Hollow road, Dravosburg and a subway at the Old Pittsburgh road in the same road.

Thirteen applications about crossings in Crawford and Mercer counties were presented by the Pittsburgh, Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad Co. All but two are for abolition of grade crossings, as follows: Mercer county—Hogans' road, Sugar Grove township; Hecker road and Raber road, Delaware township; Connecting road and Leech road, Hempfield township; South Main street, Greenville, Crawford county—McQuiston road, Blair road and Minnis road, West Fallowfield township; State street and Jefferson street, Hartstown. The same company also wishes to abolish an above-grade crossing in Sugar Grove township, Mercer county on the Harrisburg road—Kenard highway, and to construct a grade crossing at North Main street, Hempfield township, Mercer county.

The application of Arthur W. Alyea to operate an autobus between Towanda and Mansfield was also considered.

POTTERS DISCUSS WAGE SCALE

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 12.—A new wage agreement to govern the pottery industry during the two years to begin October 1 is under discussion at a conference opened here today between representatives of the United States Potters' association and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters. The workmen are holding out for a 25 per cent wage increase. The manufacturers have presented a number of counter proposals. Among other things they ask that the doors be open to foreign white labor in all departments and that all prices and contract work be abolished.

W. C. T. U. Protests Use of Hotels For Holding School Banquets

Resolutions adopted by Women's Christian Temperance Convention.

We the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Clearfield county, in 32nd annual convention assembled, do gratefully acknowledge the evidence of the Holy Spirit in the advancement of our work during the past year.

Whereas, There are many Temperance Organizations, with many standards, but it resolved, that we co-operate with the State Dry Federation, and continue our co-operation with a County Federation.

Whereas, we deplore the fact that some school banquets in our county are held in licensed hotels, therefore, be it resolved that we use our influence to encourage the use of homes, school buildings or halls.

Whereas, knowing that cigarette smoking is no longer a moral question, and knowing that the great business world has decided it a deadly enemy of advancement of achievement, and knowing also of the great waste of money in this seductive habit, resolved that we disfavor placing cigarettes and tobacco in comfort kits or bags for soldiers.

Resolved, that we reaffirm our belief that taxation without representation tion is tyranny, and shall continue to work and pray for the enfranchisement of women.

Whereas, almost all crime contains the element of cruelty and whereas, the systematic teaching of the law of kindness to every living creature, has proven to be a prevention of crime, therefore be it resolved, that we recognize the fundamental need of such teachings, do earnestly recommend it to all educators and that we urge the formation of societies for the prevention of cruelty to both human and dumb creatures.

Resolved, that we express our heartfelt thanks to the pastor and trustees of the M. E. church of Curwensville for the use of their church and to the pastors of other churches who so efficiently aided. To the ladies who served us with such excellent meals and to those who so kindly opened their homes for our comfort. Also to Mrs. S. C. WHY CAN'T CLEARFIELD SUPPORT A BAND?

Why can't Clearfield support a band? Every other town that is a town supports at least one band and many towns not half as large as ours possess two good bands—notably our neighboring town of Curwensville.

Clearfield has a great many musicians of more than ordinary ability and with a little encouragement it seems there should be no trouble in recruiting and keeping up a first class band, such as represented Clearfield for many years, when the town was nothing nearly as prosperous as it is now.

No single organization ever served a better purpose looking to the placing of the town on the map than the famous Fifth Regiment band, and its fame when it was a part of the Fifth Regiment N. G. P. was more than state-wide. Following the disbanding of the Fifth regiment it continued as Leopold's Fifth Regiment band and added anew to its laurels and the town's prestige for several years in many contests and at many parades and gatherings throughout the state.

The director and moving spirits in the organization, who gave much time and money to the band's affairs, succeeded in worrying along with little or no support from the public, going down into their own pockets to pay expenses in addition to the daily loss in business way while out on duty with the band.

When war was declared so many of the Fifth Regiment's players enlisted that it was necessary to disband and since that time we have had no band in Clearfield—this town of good bands—with the exception of course of the Clearfield Italian band, a very creditable organization which deserves encouragement also.

There never was so much need for a band in Clearfield, with the draft and the activities incident thereto, and our people should make an effort to have one organized. It is an activity President Betts of the Chamber of Commerce, might well get behind with his customary energy. With the manifold industries in our town it ought not to be hard to secure band men to come to Clearfield to live and work if the proper inducements were offered them. In this way needed members could be secured and a good band built up again around the old-time local musicians.

No organization of the kind can be self-supporting, and the town should have pride enough to do its part toward helping the boys who have sacrificed so much to give old Clearfield a good band.

Let us give this matter the attention it deserves and get behind a proposition that will mean a bang-up band for Clearfield. The Progress will do its full share.

DUMDUMS

The Lord helps them who help themselves but the aforesaid "them" should be very careful what they help themselves to.

German officials recently stated that the U. S. was getting up in the air. Right they are but those of us who are up in the air have their machines under perfect control and a good supply of bombs ready to drop on German positions.

One who boasts that he never stood in the way of public improvements is now very busy advising his cohorts not to sign the petition for the elimination of the deadly grade crossing at the County Home. Apparently they are considering the source and the why of the whine for they are signing it just the same.

HOW A RAILROAD EARNS A DOLLAR.

If a drayman charged you fifty cents for carting a ton of freight one mile from the railroad depot to your residence or place of business, you would not accuse the man of being exorbitant in his charges and refuse to pay him unless he reduced the amount.

Knowing that a ton is quite a load, and that the drayman's expenses have increased in the same ratio as your own, you would consider his charge extremely reasonable and, perhaps, hand him an extra dime or a good cigar as evidence of your satisfaction.

Now, as the freight was carted from the depot, it was evidently hauled there by the railroad, and, wishing to learn how much the railroad company received from the shipment, we quickly ascertain from the company's statistics that the average rate for hauling a ton one mile is a little less than one-half of one cent, or the one hundredth part of what the drayman received.

For that dime which you may have given to the drayman, the railroad hauls a ton twenty miles, or farther than from Rochester to Munciford; for the price of a dollar, but, the railroad hauls a ton two hundred miles, or from Rochester, N. Y., to DuBois, Pa.; and for the amount paid for a fifteen-dollar ready-made suit of clothes, the shipment was hauled three thousand miles or nearly across the continent! School for Soldiers Lesson No. 27

This course of thirty daily lessons is offered to the men selected for service in the National Army as a practical help in getting started in the right way. It is informal in tone and does not attempt to give binding rules and direction. These are contained in the various manuals and regulations of the United States army to which this course is merely introductory.

LESSON NO. 27 THE SPIRIT OF THE SERVICE

The spirit that dominated the American armies at Bunker Hill, New Orleans, Buena Vista, Gettysburg and Santiago will just as surely dominate the National army on the battle fields of Europe.

This spirit is a compound. It is made up in part of democratic feeling, in part of respect and love for the nation and in part of Americanism.

The United States army has always been and will always remain a democratic army. Every man in the army is made to feel that his brains and his individuality count for something. It is not merely a big, soulless machine that moves with mechanical precision. It is a "team". Each man in the team is presumed to be intelligent and self-reliant.

Democracy in the Army

Of course there can be no teamwork without regularity and strict discipline. This is equally true of a football or baseball team. There must also be various ranks and degrees of authority. And sometimes this necessary organization and close regulation creates an impression that the army is not democratic.

But the fact of the case is that the American soldiers accept the reasonable discipline of the army readily because they have the good sense to realize that these things are necessary. They accept them without losing in the least their real independence as free citizens.

Furthermore American armies are democratic because the path of promotion is wide open. Any man who has a reasonable amount of ability can practice, can study, can cultivate the qualities of a soldier and a leader, and can work his way up. And this is the real test of a democratic army.

In a special sense the national army is democratic. A great democracy must always carry on its affairs through chosen representatives. You are doubtless familiar with principle as it is applied in time of peace. Now it is applied in time of war. Through a process of fair selection the national army has been picked to represent all parts of the country and all groups of the people. Never has America sent forth an army so truly representative of the nation.

There are always pessimists in every generation who insist that patriotism is dead or at least decaying. They have not been lacking in recent years. Then comes a crisis such as now confronts us. And always the question of patriotism is answered by a free outpouring of effort, money and blood on the part of citizens of all types in every section of the country. This is exactly what is now going on—and what will continue to go on with increasing force until the war is brought to a victorious end.

Everybody Must Help

Every citizen of the United States now has or will have certain duties to perform, certain sacrifices to make.

Remington UMC

Few sportsmen nowadays judge a day's sport merely by the size of the bag they bring home with them.

Yet a man's object in shooting is to hit what he aims at.

There's nothing like the thrill of cutting down a fast bird; of getting the clay that sails out at an unexpected angle; of scoring a "possible" when the light is bad, and mirage makes the bull's-eye swim almost out of sight.

As a sportsman, you are willing to take chances with natural conditions—but you want to be sure of your shooting equipment.

Whether a Shotgun, a Big Game Rifle, or the smallest .22 for the boy—it is the Remington make you want.

And in ammunition, whether Shot Shells or Metallic Cartridges, it is worth finding the Red Ball Mark of Remington UMC on the box for the sake of the better results that Remington UMC will give you.

FOUR OF TAGEBLATT STAFF ARE HELD IN PHILADELPHIA

Editor-in Chief And Writer Surrender—Letters From U. S. Senator Found

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Four members of the staff of the Philadelphia Tageblatt, whose offices were raided yesterday by government agents, are now under arrest, and the remaining two for whom warrants have been issued will appear in time for hearing Thursday. All are charged with violating the espionage act through the publication of articles alleged to be inimical to the interests of the United States.

Louis Werner, editor-in-chief, and Waldimar Alfredo, an editorial writer, surrendered to the Federal authorities today and were held in $10,000 bail each. Peter Schaefer, president of the company which publishes the Tageblatt, and Paul Vogel, treasurer, the other two men wanted, are in Cincinnati, attending a meeting of editors, it was said, and their counsel promised they would be here Thursday. The men arrested yesterday are Dr. Martin Darkow, managing editor, and Herman Lemke, business manager.

Agents of the Department of Justice reported that among articles seized were a number of letters from a United States senator from a Western state. The contents of the letters were not revealed.

In the city of Dallas 220 saloons, one brewery and 12 wholesale houses will quit business.

ADVANCED RATE ON MEAT DENIED TO RAILROADS

Washington, Sept. 11.—Proposed general increases in freight rates on livestock and fresh and dressed meats on virtually all lines east of Mississippi and north of the Ohio, which were to have become effective September 18, today were suspended until January 13 by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The proposed rates were the outgrowth of the 15 per cent rate case in which the railroads sought to obtain a flat increase of 15 per cent on virtually all products handled.

CROWDER TO GIVE NOTICE BEFORE NEXT DRAFT CALLS

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Rochester draft boards, preparing a second increment of 800 men to send to Wightstown, N. J., on September 19, halted their work today when Chairman Matson received instructions from Provost Marshal Gen. Crowder at Washington, who wired that "due to the lack of absolutely certain information of the percentage of completion of mobilization camps, it is not deemed wise to issue the actual call to military duty for the increments to go on September 19 and October 3, until this office has been definitely informed and has definitely informed the governor of each state that the camps will be ready on the dates mentioned."

Ten days' notice will be given in advance, the provost marshal general's dispatch said.

Final Vote Delayed by Futile Attempt To Change the Measure

Washington, Sept. 11.—Final vote on the soldiers' and sailors' insurance bill was delayed in the House again today by repeated unsuccessful attempts of its opponents to change the measure. GOV. LOUDEN IS PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITY

Loyal Ruler of State of Illinois May Displace Sherman As Favorite Son of That State

LOVES TO SQUELCH PACIFISTS

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 12.—Although it is rather early to figure on the next presidential election, the people of Illinois are already making frequent mention of the name of Governor Frank G. Lowden in connection with the Republican nomination for the presidency. There is every indication that if the convention were near at hand Governor Lowden would be certain to supplant Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman as the "favorite son" of Illinois.

Governor Lowden's quick and decisive action in squelching the recent attempt of the pacifists to hold their national conference in Chicago has served to bring him prominently into the public eye of the nation. Already people of other states are calling on him for addresses at public gatherings.

Governor Lowden is a native of Minnesota, having been born at Sunrise, a small village on the eastern border of that state. He was reared, however, on a small farm afterward purchased by his father in Iowa. Farming was not always so profitable in these days as it is now, and there were times when the hand of poverty bore heavily upon the family.

At an early age young Lowden struck out for himself. Through his own exertions he received his education at Iowa State university, graduating with high honors in 1885, and spent the two following years in a law school in Chicago. In an almost incredibly short time after receiving his diploma he was in possession of a lucrative income won by his own indomitable pluck and energy. He had established a high place for himself at the Chicago bar when, in 1896, he met and married Miss Florence Pullman, daughter of George E. Pullman, the multi-millionaire palace car magnate.

Governor Lowden's public career began in the late '90s, when he began to take an active interest in Republican politics in Illinois. He was a delegate to the Republican national conventions in 1900 and 1904 and in the latter year he became the Republican national committeeman for Illinois.

In 1904 the young lawyer made his first try for public office, his goal being the Republican nomination for governor of Illinois, which he failed to win at that time, though he made a good impression upon the people and many of the leaders of his party. The campaign was one of the most hotly contested in the history of the state. At the celebrated deadlocked convention at Springfield, young Lowden was defeated at the moment when victory seemed within his grasp. Charles S. Deenen was given the nomination over Lowden, and in the successful campaign that followed no man worked harder for the election of the Republican nominee than did the candidate who was defeated in the convention.

In 1906 Lowden was elected to congress to fill the unexpired term of the late Robert R. Hitt. He was re-elected to the 60th and 61st congresses, and at the expiration of his second full term he voluntarily retired from the arena of politics and took up practical farming on his magnificent estate of 2,000 acres on the banks of the Rock river in northern Illinois.

Governor Lowden's friends are confident that his talents will hurl him close to the presidential firing line in 1920. His record as congressman and governor are expected to count heavily in his favor. As a stump-speaker he has always been able to hold his own. His restless brain craves action, and he delights to be where events of moment are occurring. Since he assumed the executive chair at Springfield he has shown a grasp of public questions that sufficiently disposes of any doubt that might have been entertained as to his ability to measure up to the office of governor, or even the higher one of president. Moreover, his Americanism is of the six-cylinder type, which lies a quality that obviously must be possessed beyond dispute by the man, whether Republican or Democrat, who aspires to succeed President Wilson in the white house.

MAY FOUND JEWISH REPUBLIC

England, France and United States to Exercise Joint Protectorate After War, Is Report.

Palestine is to become a Jewish republic at the end of the war, according to a recent report that appeared simultaneously in London and Washington. It is thought possible that the disposition of the Holy Land was one of the subjects discussed by the British and French envoys with President Wilson and Secretary Lansing at Washington. That the United States would favor such a plan is considered certain.

According to the report the Jewish republic, known as Judea, would be a protectorate of England, France and the United States acting jointly. Jerusalem would be the capital of the new republic, which would have local government. Should this plan be carried into operation a great migration of the Jews back to their ancient land will likely take place. Not a great many are expected to leave the United States, but the several million more or less persecuted members of the race in Roumania, Serbia, Austria, Hungary and Germany, along with some from Russia, no doubt will take advantage of the chance to live in a state where they will have equal opportunity as well as the right to worship in their old temples. Jerusalem under such a condition, would become again a city of millions and the great spaces of now arid lands in Palestine would be reclaimed.

Duffy Lewis has been coming thru with the stick of late, the Red Sox gardener being the only Boston regular found among the 300 wallpapers.

Special Music Friday Afternoon, from 2 to 4 p. m., by Theyer's Orchestra.

The ingenuity of American designers again asserts itself. In spite of the fact that we are at war, American designers have again emphasized their claim for style supremacy by wonderfully conceived fashions designed for the American woman for the coming season.

And this store is typically American, for it has assembled from the leading fashion centres, a gathering of styles that will again bring to the fore the pre-eminence of this store as the fashion centre of this city and surrounding. The painstaking care used in making selections—the expert knowledge of our buyers regarding market conditions, manifests itself to a remarkable degree in the wonderfully arranged displays you will find in the store during these special Fall Opening days.

We extend to you a very cordial invitation. Come and view the new fashions in all their splendid surroundings.

THE PEPTIMIST

An optimist is a man who believes that the seed he plants in his garden will grow and look as good as the pictures on the package.

A pessimist stands beneath the tree of prosperity and laments when the fruit falls on his head.

A "peptimist" would claim to have invented a so-called happy medium between these two.

He doesn't believe with the optimist, that the seeds will produce something equal to the picture on the package, but he does believe they will grow and bring some return for his labor.

Should the fruit from the tree of prosperity fall on his head, he rubs the bump and eats the fruit.

When the seed has failed, he says "Fair and square" to himself, it and carries his loss.

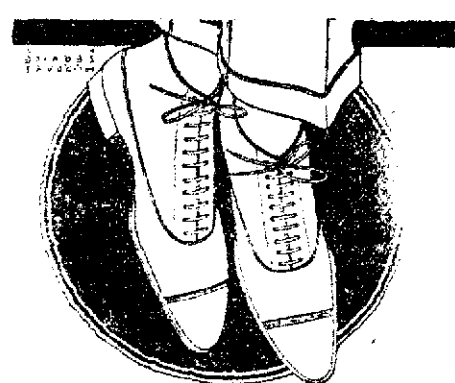

Like the optimist, he sees the bright side of the picture, and, but for the loss of the seed, he would be just as happy as the optimist.

And, unlike the pessimist, he doesn't get discouraged when the fruit falls on his head, but he rubs the bump and eats the fruit.

Next to the garden of Woodland was a very pretty place.
